FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, March 18.—A majority of issues showed little change during the early trading on the stock exchange today but some of the specialties were in good demand with Mexican Petroleum the most prominent feature, advancing $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 114 $\frac{1}{2}$. N. Y. Air Brake moved up $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 149 $\frac{1}{2}$, and Marine Preferred rose $\frac{1}{2}$ to 73 $\frac{1}{2}$. There was a gain at a point in Norfolk and western at the opening, but changes in other issues were generally small and about evenly divided between advances and declines. Anaconda opened $\frac{1}{4}$ higher at 87 $\frac{1}{2}$, and then lost the gain. Reading, which opened $\frac{1}{2}$ higher at 88 $\frac{1}{2}$, sold at 87 $\frac{1}{2}$ in the next few minutes. Steel Common receded $\frac{1}{4}$ to 86, and the same amount of loss was sustained in Utah Copper. Distillers Securities moved up $\frac{1}{2}$ to 47 $\frac{1}{2}$. Business was small and most of the transactions represented operations by traders on the floor.

The market closed irregular. There was no change in conditions in the last hour, a number of the specialties being in free supply at concessions, with American Zinc falling a point to 87%, and the same amount of decline was sustained in Industrial Alcohol. Norfolk and Western reacted a point and Reading sold down to 87. American Can. was in better demand, advancing $\frac{1}{2}$. In the late trading American Beehive Sugar developed strength, advancing a point to 73. Government bonds unchanged; others irregular.

Quotations furnished by John D. Kline, Warren Building, Fair street Kingston, N. Y., Tel. 1438. Correspondent of C. H. Van Buren & Company, members of Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1560-1554—A Simple But Attractive Gown.

Comprising Ladies' Waist Pattern 1560, and Ladies' Skirt Pattern 1554.

As here shown "honeycomb" checked suiting in black and white was employed. The vest and skirt fronts were faced with white serge. Collar and collar trimmings of black satin form a smart finish, together with tiny jet buttons. The waist fronts meet the back in yoke effect. The vest is one of the new style features, and is cut to turn back at the neck edge with the collar, in "convertible" style. The sleeve in wrist or elbow length is smart. The skirt has a back panel forming plaits. The front shows a plaited insert. The waist pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The skirt in 6 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure. It will require 7 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for the entire gown for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures about 3 1/2 yards at the foot.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps by The Freeman Pattern Department. Be sure to state size wanted.

SANDWICHES FOR GUESTS.

Good wholesome bread is the great food in our homes and is often-times the most ill prepared. For the busy woman who has little time to prepare the light bread in the longer process this will appeal to her:

Quick Bread.—Boil and mash seven potatoes, add a pint of water in which the potatoes have been boiled, and three pints of cold water, then stir in two and a half cakes of yeast dissolved in a little warm water, two tablespoonsful of salt, two of sugar and three of flour, mix and add a pint of boiling water; when cool add to the first mixture and cover with a cloth and keep warm ten hours. Then place in a moderately cool place until needed. For each loaf of bread put four cupsful of flour, warm and sifted into a bread pan with a pint of the yeast, a cupful of scalded milk, cooled, and a tablespoonful of lard. Mix with a spoon, then knead briskly for ten minutes, mold into loaves and let rise in a warm place. When light bake forty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Tea Rolls.—Scald two cupsful of milk and pour it over a cupful of sugar, three tablespoonsful of butter and a teaspoonful of salt. When it is cool to luke-warm beat into it three cupsful of flour, sifted three times, then add a cake of yeast, dissolved in a fourth of a cupful of luke-warm water. Cover and let rise until it is light, then add two well-beaten eggs, three more cupsful of flour and a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Place in a buttered bowl and let rise until double its bulk. Form into small rolls and place in a buttered pan, let them rise until very light. Brush the tops with melted butter and bake in a hot oven for fifteen minutes by adding to the above one-half a cupful of cocoa.

Popovers.—Take two cupsful of flour, two cupsful of milk, three eggs and a teaspoonful of salt. Beat the eggs until light, add the milk and salt and pour gradually into the flour, beating all the time. Strain the batter and pour into hot greased gem pans. Bake in a hot oven twenty-five minutes.

MONTOMA.

Montoma, March 18.—Mrs. R. Stoutenburg has been spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Hiram Neher.

Miss Mary Neher, who has been employed at Woodstock for a few weeks, has returned home.

O. F. DeGraff and Lucas Stoutenburg spent a couple of days in Kingston.

Lewis and Samuel Wilson of Woodstock are stopping at the home of Hiram Neher for a few days.

Miss Kathryn J. DeGraff is ill with the grip at this writing.

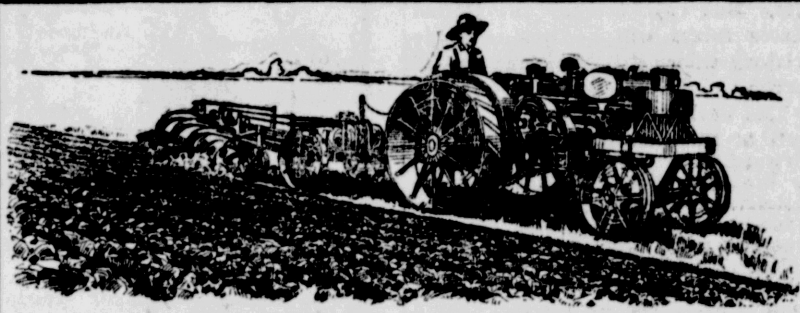

A number of people of this place are going in the poultry business this year. Louis Gendro has 106 young chicks, and Charles J. Kogan has 70 young chicks, and a number of others have their incubators already set.

Miss Kate MacGregor, who has been spending a few days with Mrs. Frank Hogan at Ashokan, has returned home.

J. L. Jones, who has been ill for a couple of months, is improving, under the care of Dr. J. C. Kamp of Woodstock.

The Misses Inez Yerry and Edna Shultz of Bearsville visited Mrs. Edward Yerry on Tuesday evening.

Don't Feed Your Crops Into Idle Surplus Horses

You can't turn a switch and stop a horse eating but you can a tractor.

You can farm cheaper by selling your extra horses that you only keep to help out on the heavy work by getting an Avery tractor to take their place.

You can also raise bigger crops by Tractor Farming. Few farmers realize how much more power they need. You need more power for plowing deeper, for more discing and harrowing, for harvesting and for doing all your work quicker at just the right time.

Tractor Farming is the way to raise bigger crops, save expense, and have easier work. Ask for catalogue.

KINGSTON, N. Y. MAR. 18, 1916.

With gasoline not so far away from the half dollar per gallon mark, the seriousness of the situation which threatens automobile manufacturers is easily perceived. When the season is once fairly open the complaints that have already greeted the successive jumps in the price will not be a circumstance to those which will ensue once the full consumers' chorus opens up. It is in the effort to forestall this movement and its bound-to-be disastrous effect upon the automobile industry that Henry Ford and many manufacturers are turning their attention to the source of motive power rather than to their own products. The suggested boycott of trust gasoline in favor of independent producers will not avail much, as it cannot be expected that the independents will sell under the prevailing market. Some other remedy will be necessary, either government action to break any combination to raise prices or the discovery of substitutes for gasoline.

The gasoline controversy is not merely a battle between a few consumers and gasoline-producing corporations. Back of it are aligned the millions of dollars represented in the motor industry on one side against the millions of dollars invested in the great oil companies of which the Standard Oil is such a conspicuous example. A higher price for gasoline is going to militate more than any other thing against the popularization of the automobile to which goal the leaders in this great American industry have set themselves. The lines are hardly drawn at this stage, but the situation is fast assuming a critical point, nevertheless. Gasoline, once considered almost worthless, has so revolutionized business and pleasures as to become a paramount necessity in American life. That its frequent rises in price must eventually revolutionize present methods of production and sale in this country is already convincingly indicated by the attitude of automobile makers and their ever-increasing lists of patrons.

Mormon elders are said to be spending little time in sleep since the heavy casualties of the European war have almost denuded certain sections of Continental Europe and England of men, and among bearded women of England their activities are said to have become so marked as to arouse social workers and the clergy. The elders do not preach polygamy, but merely preach the doctrine that salvation will be the reward of joining their church, incidentally painting in glorious colors certain sections of Utah as being the best earthly home and far from the war. It will be up to the countries where the Mormons are operating to curtail their activities, but it is not to be presumed that anti-Mormon societies in America will neglect the opportunity of passing denunciatory resolutions condemning the Mormons' work abroad. It is always easier to adopt resolutions of that nature regarding something which happens thousands of miles away than to carry on a propaganda against polygamous practices nearer home. Academic resolutions and discussion have an educational value, of course, although they are a rather roundabout way of accomplishing results.

Appraisal by an expert of jewelry belonging to the widow of the late Theodore A. Havemeyer, who gathered a fortune out of the sugar manufacturing industry, reveals the fact that much of her jewelry was not genuine. Similar discoveries have been made public in the case of the wives of other wealthy men, and lead to discussion of how much of the jewelry worn by wealthy women on dress-parade occasions would bear the examination of experts. Frequent cases have come to light where jewels owned by wives of multi-millionaires were duplicated in "paste"; genuine diamonds being supplanted in the duplicate set by highly polished crystals, genuine pearls by manufactured jewels which sell for a fraction of the price of the real stones, and imitations taking the place in the duplicate set of the real jewels found in the genuine set. Often the duplicate set is purchased at the same time as the set for which a fortune is paid, in order that it may be worn on such occasions and in such places as the owner would be most liable to robbery. Since they cannot be detected from the genuine jewels except by an expert, the vanity of the wearer is satisfied and but slight loss follows if robbery is committed. "All is not gold that glitters," and the jewels which may be the object of envy of some one unacquainted with the facts may be "paste." But if such jewels are worn at all, it is difficult for the non-expert to know whether they are not worn all the while, and a doubt is raised if there are any genuine jewels at all. In Mrs. Havemeyer's case, all the jewelry was appraised at less than $10,000, including the jewels which were not genuine.

The Sawdust Kind.

Charles S. Mellen, ex-president of the New Haven Railway, was talking at a New York dinner party about a line of cross-examination to which he had been subjected.

"It was a sterile line," he said. "A line with nothing in it. A line as futile and unsatisfying as those lines of heavily advertised breakfast foods that have all gone up in smoke."

"I remember when these lines were the rage, how one little girl said to another:

"I wonder what they feed dolls on?"

"I know," said the other little girl, "cause when my Lillian Russell fell downstairs and broke her head off, her tummy was all stuffed full of breakfast food."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Page and Miss Lizzie Ellison spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forbes of Kingston.

SUNDAY SERVICES

IN THE CHURCHES.

No person having come forward to claim that big red Ben Davis apple offered a week ago, The Freeman is confirmed in its original position that strangers and visitors are welcome in all churches in Kingston. Therefore it is needless to make the statement in detail in connection with each church notice. Why state a fact that everyone knows? The notices in this column should give information, unobscured by exhortation. Thanks are extended to those clergymen who are taking the hints given and aiding to make these notices what they should be.

An Interesting Suite of Dining-Room Furniture

You have certainly heard of---and probably read---Charles Major's delightful story "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall."

The story is founded on fact, for about 1575, Dorothy Vernon was one of England's most famous beauties, and lived at Haddon Hall---which stands today in Derbyshire, England, little changed after all these years.

We have just purchased the "Dorothy Vernon" Dining-room Suite, a reproduction of the Jacobean period.

See this in our show window.

The extreme height of many of the Spring hats is a feature. Novelty straw is used in many of them and usually are close fitting. A particular note is the tall trimming in another. The hat illustrated is a smart affair in green rough crushed wing of rose velvet is arranged on top of the crown. Crushed roses were placed at intervals. The bordered veil part of the rose and the chin was very unusual in design.

REVIEW OF FIFTY YEARS IN KINGSTON

Sheriff Dill Recalls the Old Days When He Used to Come Up From Shawangunk and Meet Those Active in Public Affairs.

The following reminiscence contribution from one of the best known men in Ulster county, Samuel Dill, elected sheriff in 1888 on the Democratic ticket, in a presidential election year when the head of the Republican ticket carried the county by a substantial majority, will be of interest to every reader of The Freeman. Mr. Dill has resided in Kingston since 1889, but his recollections go far back of that date as he was a frequent visitor here while residing in Shawangunk.

Editor Freeman:—I have read with interest the reminiscences of Howard Chipp, Esq., which you published some time since; as well, more recently, the life, so to speak, of Charles G. Cooper. They both paint a picture of the old days. I have thought my own recollections, not dating back as long as either of these gentlemen, but sufficiently far tragic one, had the power to make friends. He never knew what defeat meant either political or legal; he fought until the last gun fired. James G. Graham, who was at that time about removing to Newburgh from Shawangunk, was finishing up his Ulster county business. He afterward made a name for himself, becoming a leader of the Orange county bar. His address on the death of Congressman Charles H. Winfield of that bar is a classic.

As for A. Bruyn Hasbrouck, I believe he was still at his country place, St. Remy, in those days, but just dropped in to see "his boys," as I have heard him call them. While he was a distinguished lawyer in the early days, he will best be remembered as the president of Rutgers College at New Brunswick, New Jersey, for a period of ten years; that place to whom the Dutch are so loyal and which so many men of prominence all over the United States delight to feel was their alma mater.

A little later on, about 1874, I became a member of the board of supervisors, and when it became necessary to elect a clerk, I was one of those who supported Alton B. Parker. Though he still resides in Ulster county, his visits to Kingston are of rare occurrence. I doubt if all his subsequent triumph gave him more pleasure than his election at that time, as his capabilities do not stop there. At argument he is forceful and fearless, and he knows the law. Gracious and affable he is nevertheless a holy terror if you try to fool him. I have seen his opponents fairly ground up with his righteous wrath and biting sarcasm. The judge is still with us. I was going to say taking life easy, but he isn't.

He has too many honors thrust on him for that. Amidst all his exacting engagements he finds time to take part in all matters demanding the attention of the good citizen. Then there was Derrick W. Sparling, now no more; Charles A. Fowler, gifted and gone; J. Newton Fiero, now dean of the Albany Law School, who could compel the attention of a farmer jury about equal to the best; O. P. Carpenter, who was then district attorney; C. Meech Woolsey, a member of the board of supervisors since Adam, a mighty active politician in those days, but a fair fighter; the courtly Linson, then making his start, as well as Howard Chipp, Jr., who of course is a chip of the old block, and Judge James A. Betts.

All these men were then in the early period of their practice. Now Sparling, Fowler, Carpenter, Linson are gone, and time has whitened the locks and softened the characters of all the rest. You can scarcely realize the change from the impetuosity of youth to the courtly and dignified increasing years, but all gentlemen, every one of them.

If I am correct, with the single exception of Andrew L. F. Deyo, of Gardiner, not a member of the board of supervisors, when I became connected with that body, is still living. They were a dignified, intelligent set of men, Luke Noone, John B. Gerow, John D. Winfield, Robert A. Snyder, Isaac N. Cox and Louis Bevier, are some, I recall, good representative men from various business life of Ulster county. Kingston never suffered when Luke Noone was around. Occasionally we would rally him on the fact that he had to come to the country in a large measure, for the stone he trafficked in, and that he ought to be more liberal with us in various matters. With his rugged horse sense, he would say: "I know it boys, but if it wasn't for the cities, you'd have no place to sell your stone!" John B. Gerow never could be persuaded to do anything for the rest of the county until Plattelick had been taken care of. John D. Winfield afterward became superintendent of the Port of New York and New Harbor. Robert A. Snyder, assemblyman and sheriff; and Isaac N. Cox, congressman; Andrew L. F. Deyo, then as now, raised the finest apples extant, and only last fall succeeded in getting his picture in every agricultural paper in the United States because he got such good prices for his apples, sold at that by auction. Peter Cantine and F. L. Westbrook were the counsel for that board, so there was no need to get tangled up legally.

In the earlier days I speak of there was no communication from that section, except by stage or private conveyance. We used to drive to New Paltz, and then take the stage, or sometimes drive to Newburgh, and so on up the river by steamer. Rondout and Kingston were as separate as some people would like to have them now. I do not think there is a single merchant in business in Rondout that was established as long ago as 1846. Stern, the spectacle man, Van Deusen Bros. and Dick Devoe are names best remembered by me. The Mansion House, then a hostelry of renown, kept by Mr. Lasher, was a rendezvous for all sorts of travelers—doctors, lawyers, merchants, bankers, rivermen, and a tremendous amount of trade was done. On the Strand, if you were there at the right hour, you might see Thomas Cornell coming out of his big shops. He would stop to chat a minute with James G. Lindsley, Kingston's first mayor, or he might give his son-in-law, S. D. Coykendall, some last request or instruction before mounting the hill for dinner. If you wanted a check cashed you'd have to see Jansen Hasbrouck or Charley Bray, and possibly if not alert, Dr. Josiah Hasbrouck, of Port Ewen, would make you know he was looking after a Rondout patient, with such vigor did he drive.

Appropos to Dr. Hasbrouck, going across the Skiffport ferry once, I noticed a lady with a large suit case. It was a hot day. The doctor had just tied his horse at Sleight's store, and spying the lady he said,

"Where are you going." "To Dominie Lippincott's," she replied. Then said he "You can't carry that big suitcase up the hill, take my horse and drive up. But can you drive a horse?" She replied she could "but where would she leave the horse?" The doctor said, "Oh tie him anywhere, I'll get him." For civility, decency and showing the true gentleman, I never witnessed a finer incident. The doctor is gone, but his son, Judge Hasbrouck, adorns the supreme court bench in this district, keeping up his father's reputation for fairness and ability.

When you got up town, why of course you'd stop at the Eagle or City Hotel, perhaps on the street here you'd see Dominie Hoes or Dr. Stitt, while General Smith, Marius Schoonmaker, James O. Merritt or Charles D. Bruyn might be hurrying to and fro looking after their various interests. I think Safford's jewelry store was the only one on Wall street in 1866. L. S. Winne & Brothers are about as long here as any of them at present engaged in trade. Of course, Cohen and Bernstein were on North Front street, that is their fathers were, but in no such metropolitan store as their sons have. There were no horse cars, no trolleys, no Ulster & Delaware, Wallkill Valley, Ontario & Western or West Shore, they were being talked of only. When the horse cars came down Broadway or Union avenue, it was then at the car barn, you would see Billy DeGarmo or Billy Hayes and sometimes stopping to pass the time of day, Augustus Skepmoes. Does anybody remember these men?

A little later, in 1839, when I became sheriff, the men who are practically retiring now, did all the business at the court house. Judge Furman was on the supreme court bench, Judge Clearwater, county judge, John N. Vanderlyn, district attorney, Jacob D. Wurts, county clerk. These men are all living but Judge Furman. I have spoken above of Judge Clearwater. John N. Vanderlyn, than whom no more efficient district attorney ever held that office, was taking care of the business that came to his office, alone. There were no deputies, no clerks, no detectives. He paid the strictest attention to every detail and served the people with credit.

Jacob D. Wurts had been supervisor from New Paltz, had been assemblyman twice, and no more popular person ever held the county clerkship. He was a doctor of many years practice and I believe the son of a doctor. In these days he has suffered a long illness, that though it has sapped his vitality, it has never hurt his tremendous nerve or his rare good humor under the most trying conditions.

I might speak incidentally here of another doctor from New Paltz, Dr. Charles W. Deyo, who was county clerk just about a year or so after my acquaintance with Kingston began. A more affable dignified, accommodating and courteous gentleman never occupied any office. He served two terms as clerk, then was called to the banking business, he having been formerly connected with the banks of New Paltz, and by his knowledge and skill was largely instrumental in rehabilitating and making his institution among the first and best. Dr. Charles W. Deyo was a man.

Among the most prominent men at the bar at the commencement of my term as sheriff was Augustus H. Van Buren, who I might say should have been mentioned a little earlier and who has grown old like myself and scarred with his former fights, but is still as belligerent as ever, and William Lounsbury, who only had just come back from Washington having been our congressman and earlier still the mayor of Kingston. John G. Van Etten, county judge, who by connection and education, you might say was born a lawyer and in every term of court made himself manifest.

William D. Brinlier had commenced to show the mettle in him, so that it was a by-word, "If you want to get out of trouble once in a while, get Brinlier, and if you want to keep out of trouble get Brinlier." You were well taken care of no matter which horn of the dilemma you took. Today he goes off according to your paper to the Isle of Pines and just sits around taking it easy, knowing the retinue of lawyers in his office will look well after matters.

Virgil B. Van Wageningen, who knows how to prosecute a case, and a little later Joseph M. Fowler, who after he got tired going to the legislature pays strict attention to his law business, Walter N. Gill, formerly of Rondout and for the recent years surrogate, the complacent Daniel B. Deyo and equally so D. G. Atkins and then there was Charley Irwin, who could make you think black was white, so convincing was his argument. A little later on a new knight, off of Lis arm, Amos Van Etten, a more courageous, ready tongued and skilled practitioner is not at the bar today. As a spectator said, "I'd rather have him for me than against me."

I cannot recall, there are so many of them, the more recent acquisitions to the Ulster bar. Of course, there is the convincing Darrow, the gracious Cook, the beaming Canfield, the ready Brooks, the fighter Irwin, the dignified New District Attorney Traver, Assemblyman DeWitt and Senator Walton, a host of others, unknown to me, born long after I became sheriff. In time they will take the places of their elders, the old court house will ring with their resonant eloquence; they will become the leaders, as many of them now are the geniuses at the bar.

Of course, I have not meant to ignore the prime of the later county judges, the distinguished Charles F. Cantine, who will be remembered by all. He put a great deal of dignity in that seat and will best be remembered by his skill in commercial matters, enhanced by his having been district attorney. He died while holding the judgeship, to the keen regret of all.

Neither do I forget the justly celebrated official, District Attorney Cunningham. I heard Mr. Brinlier pay him this great compliment in summing up a case: "I'm not afraid of the testimony in this case. I am afraid of the district attorney. He is the greatest cross-examiner in all the Hudson Valley. So marvelous is his skill, men say what they do not mean to under his adroit leading on." That surely coming from an adversary is praise indeed. Mr.

COME IN AND LET US EXPLAIN OUR OFFER

GREGORY & COMPANY

Cunningham has been elevated to a judgeship. It's too bad; too bad because we shall miss in Ulster county his exhibition of skill as a prosecutor, his cross-examinations, his clever and wonderful analysis of testimony and finally his great argument that has not been excelled at this bar. Equally at home in either civil or criminal work, his knowledge of the law seems complete. With many years we trust ahead of him, let us hope he is not buried in the court of claims.

My old friend, James Jenkins is county judge. He came originally from near my old home. I've watched him grow legally ever since he has been here. He knows how to dispatch business; trying the most difficult cases and standing off the assaults of Brinnier, Van Etten, Clearwater, Cunningham and others of the profession in a courteous yet firm manner, and deciding the intricate points with the precision of a Clearwater and the fairness of a Cantine.

Kingston has changed since I first knew it. Why even its present mayor was born only three years before I came here as sheriff. He is of the right metal evidently for he puts himself on record in the vital matters as no other executive did before and certainly is filling the bill.

The canal is abandoned, the cement industry is gone in a great measure, likewise the blue stone; yet we have another tremendous asset in the Ashokan reservoir that must bring thousands of visitors here each year. The farmers and others received fine remuneration for lands taken, almost without exception, and the tremendous employment of labor, both in the building and in the maintaining of the plant, means much. When we are finally settled and know our exact relationship and our taxing power, then we will be better friends with big New York and in better condition ourselves.

There may be some who will criticize me for speaking of those who are still living in these retrospectives, but I am one of those who think some of the flowers should be distributed during life and not all at death. I have had my knocks, my ups and downs, adversity has reached out and laid its hand good and hard upon me, but sitting as I am beside the fire and putting down these thoughts of men and things of the past and present, I do it without acrimony for any one. I am in the evening of life and would not willingly wrong a soul. If any there be who cannot have the same feeling for me, I trust there may be some left to say when I am gone, "I love him for the enemies he has made."

Sincerely,
SAMUEL DILL.

POETRY TO PAINTING.

Dr. Bell's Latest Book is on "The Philosophy of Painting."

Dr. Raley Husted Bell, a native of Ulster county who spent his early years at the foot of Shawangunk mountains, in the town of Rochester, and later in the town of Rosendale, is the author of "The Philosophy of Painting," which recently has been issued by G. P. Putnam's Sons.

In a review of Mr. Bell's book, the Brooklyn Eagle says: "Mr. Bell has contributed a work that is for thinking readers, and yet in which there is no delving after his meaning. That quality in writing on such an abstruse subject as art is too rare. His studies have led him to set down the development of the art of painting, in particular, from pre-historic down to modern times. His chapters are so wisely divided and his rhetoric is so clear, while his reading has been so extended, that a reading of the book is a pleasure instead of a task—self-set for the desire of appearing to be learned."

Dr. Bell, according to the Eagle, excludes from art all ugly motifs and truly says: "Taste is no more inclined to admit disgusting subjects in art than in polite society. The drawing room and the board rightly exclude nastiness, however nicely presented. The civilized family circle has its well known prohibitions. Painting should be, and indeed is, as careful of the sensible proprieties as is society of the fire-side."

Dr. Bell is best remembered in Ulster county for his book of poems, "Songs of the Shawangunks," which he wrote shortly before leaving Ulster county. The book of poems concludes with the lines:

"Farewell to friends, farewell to foes;
My heart to these, to be—I with those."
Among other well known poems in the "Songs of the Shawangunks," is one "To The Johnston's Bar."

PERFECT

Perfect glasses are not alone those that fit the eyes absolutely right, but also those that become the wearer. Our glasses are absolutely correct for the vision (or they cannot leave our establishment) for the work is that of a skilled optician and they also have the added value of being becoming to the wearer. If you have reason to worry about your eyes see us NOW—delay is dangerous and costly.

SENIORS AND JUNIORS ROAD TO SAWKILL WAS IMPASSABLE

Friday afternoon at the close of school the high school seniors and juniors played their double-header in basketball, with the result that the junior girls beat the senior girls and the senior boys beat the junior boys.

First the girls played one-half of their game and then the boys played the first half of their game. This gave the juniors the first victory of the afternoon. At the time when the junior girls trotted off the floor with their victory it looked as though the seniors were going to be beaten in both games for the junior boys, under the leadership of their efficient captain, John Joyce, had come out ahead in the first half.

Junior Girls, 31; Senior Girls, 14.

The girls teams had the benefit of nearly all the varsity players. The juniors had the Misses Safford, Schmid and Joslovitz, while the seniors had the Misses Humphrey, Riseley and Herdman. But these regular players did not outclass the other players, who all rendered valuable services to their teams.

The teamwork of the juniors did a great deal toward winning the game and the basket shooting of Miss Safford and Miss Schmid was remarkable.

In the second quarter the senior girls substituted Miss Lazerus at ft. and Miss Herdman at lf. and the latter immediately began to make things lively and made the juniors quite a good deal of trouble.

Miss Siegel refereed the game and the summary was as follows:

Junior Girls, F.B. F.P. T.P.

Helen Pennington, rg.	9	0	0
Louise Schwab, lg.	9	0	0
Joe Schmid, c.	8	0	12
Faith Safford, rf.	8	1	17
Irene Joslovitz, lf.	1	0	2
Totals	15	1	31

Senior Girls, F.B. F.P. T.P.

Goldie Bloom, lf.	1	0	2

Ida Lazerus, rf.	0	0	0
Lillian Herdman, lf.	3	0	6
Totals	7	0	14

Senior Boys, 19; Junior Boys, 12.

The boys game was certainly a fast proposition. In the first half the juniors hung together and kept the lead ending that part of the game with a score of 9 to 7. During this part of the game the junior captain Joyce got some hard knocks, which almost put him out of the game. They had rightly been pinning all their hopes on him, but fate was against the younger team and in the second half activities were started by one of the juniors forwards making a basket for the seniors. The probably more than anything else broke the nerve of the team for the class of '17, and the senior bleachers nearly went wild with exultation. From this on the senior stars Dwyer, Peyer, Riseley and Lefever began playing with wonderful speed although they were repeatedly blocked of the junior guards.

At the beginning of the second half the senior's president, Mr. Hasbrouck got out of the game and the junior's president went in. Aside from this there were no other substitutes, although at the beginning of the second half Joyce and Earl Gill took up the position of forwards and Leroy Gill jumped center against Winston, the only junior player to make a basket in the second half.

Had the fellows played amateur rules in place of professional rules the juniors would doubtless have won, for a great many fouls were called by referee Schoonmaker and if anybody in the high school can shoot fouls successfully it is the Junior Captain, John Joyce.

The summary:

Seniors, F.B. F.P. T.P.

Dwyer, rf.	2	1	5

Negative Wins Debate.

Friday evening there was a debate held in the high school auditorium on the question resolved: that there should be government ownership of telegraphs and telephones. The affirmative was upheld by Barth, leader, Strugnell and DuMond, while the negative was defended by Arnst, leader, Dana and Griffin.

Both sides had evidently done a great deal of work in preparation for the encounter, and on the whole the debaters acquitted themselves with great skill, ease and dignity.

There was a pleasant surprise awaiting many of the audience who listened to the debate last evening, for another debater has proven his pronounced merit. It is Mr. Arnst the leader of the negative, whose clear and comprehensive refutation won the praise of all. The students have been somewhat slow in realizing the ability and level-headedness of Aubrey Arnst, because he is of a retiring nature, but the village of Hurley may well be proud of this young man, and he promises to be a strong candidate for inter-scholastic debating honors next season.

The leader of the affirmative, Mr. Barth, showed he had spent a great deal of time in preparation, and as always is the case in this kind of contest where every one does their part it is regretted that both sides can't win. After the debate there was dancing in the gymnasium until eleven o'clock.

Friday evening a party of Kingston folks left for Sawkill in a big sleigh to attend the entertainment given by the Sawkill Church that night, but the snow drifts proved too much. On the way out they got as far as the old toll gate when the sleigh upset, tossing the entire party out. Fortunately no one was injured and the sleigh was not damaged. The party after righting the sleigh and shaking the snow from their garments decided to give up the Sawkill trip and returned to Kingston and drove out to Hulscher's Hotel, where they enjoyed the evening dancing.

Among those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kelsch, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dorr, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Longendyke, Miss Ethel Longendyke, Mrs. Jacob Myers, Mrs. Fahnrick, Miss Elizabeth Fahnrick, Frank Fahnrick, Percy Fairbrother, Miss Florence Dittus and Miss Margaret Dittus.

MT. TREMPER.

Mt. Tremper, March 17.—Revival meetings are being held at the Reformed Church, by the Rev. Mr. Gulick every night this week. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend. Owing to the severe storm to meeting was held Wednesday evening.

The funeral of little Lawrence Buley was held at the home of his grandparents at Beechford on Tuesday afternoon. The deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved parents and relatives and a number were grieved to hear of the little fellow's death.

James DeVall and Mrs. Gerald attended the funeral of Abraham Terwilliger at Ashokan on Tuesday. Mr. Terwilliger was a brother of Mrs. James DeVall who died recently.

Admission tickets are for sale at Meister's drug store for a cantata entitled, "The Pilgrim Fathers" to be given under the auspices of the Phoenicia Choral Society Friday evening, March 24 at 10 o'clock. The Phoenicia. A historical address will be delivered by John W. Eckert, before the cantata. After the cantata refreshments will be served by the ladies.

Miss Harris of New York city is stopping at the Randall house for a few days.

Miss Gertrude Slyvert and friend enjoyed a sleigh ride to Ashokan on Tuesday.

The Reformed Sunday school scholars expect to take a sleigh ride to Ashokan on Saturday.

Quite a blizzard visited us on Wednesday. We are getting plenty of snow.

The Misses Riseley entertained the members of "Farm Folks" the play given recently at their home last Friday evening.

Twelve Inch Ice on River.

The cold weather has been such that at the present time there is fully twelve inches of ice on the river with over two feet of snow on top of the ice. The only way to get across the river, if one does not care to walk, is to take one of the passenger sleighs running since the ferry transport was laid up for the season. The sleighs start on the journey from Ponckhockie and the best plan is to alight from the car at the Ponckhockie switch near Turkey's mill. The ice gorge at the mouth of the creek is still heavy and it will be some time before the transport is able to resume her trips.

Sold by Reis's Agency.

Merton A. Fish of Vineland, N. J., has purchased the Charles A. Conklin farm at Rifton through the real estate agency of M. A. Reis of No. 595 Broadway. Mr. Conklin is an experienced farmer and will establish an up-to-date stock farm. Mr. Reis has also sold the two-family house at No. 46 Manor avenue for Mrs. Anna Herb to W. L. Shatts of Hunter.

FAMILY JARS IN SAUGERTIES

Matrimonial mix-ups in Saugerties came up for attention before Judge Hasbrouck in special term this morning. One was a motion for a change of venue in the separation action of Grace Beauchamp against Richard Beauchamp in which Attorney Frederick E. W. Darrow seeks to have the place of trial changed to Ulster county from Dutchess county where the action was brought. Mrs. Beauchamp now resides in Poughkeepsie where City Judge William D. Brinzer, Jr. for her counsel, Morschauer & Mack of that city, said she was obliged to earn her own living. She alleges cruel treatment and the calling of names on the part of her husband. Married at Saugerties May 28, 1904, the couple have resided there until a year ago when they parted company. They have one son, Arthur, aged 11. Mrs. Beauchamp alleges her husband earns $12 a week but a recent motion for alimony was denied although she was given $25 counsel fees.

Attorney Darrow's motion was based on the convenience of witnesses nearly all of whom reside in Saugerties. In reply, Attorney Brinzer asserted that the witnesses named were not material ones and that trial could be had in Dutchess county as well. The court took the papers and counsel will submit further affidavits.

A divorce action brought by Frank Ferrero of Saugerties against Maria was tried with City Judge Brinzer for the plaintiff and no appearance for the defense. The parties were married in that village January 1, 1905, and have two children. Three years ago Mrs. Ferrero left home with one, Philip Riccio, with whom she is now living in Amsterdam. Mary Sacramento and Teresa Cisco testified as to the defendant's misconduct. Counsel was sworn as to service of the papers on defendant and afterward Ferrero left the court room with a smile in place of the scowl his face had worn on the stand. An interlocutory decree of divorce was granted.

By order of JOSEPH MITCHELL, Dictator.

WEATHER BOOSTS PRICE OF PORK

Local butchers express concern over the failure of farmers to bring pigs to town for the pork market. Because of the recent blizzard the roads leading in to the country are in an almost impassable condition and farmers are unable to bring the animals for slaughtering, thus leaving the local market with few pigs. Prices of pork advanced two cents higher than that of two weeks ago for this reason. Butchers who depend upon Dutchess county farmers for their pork are in a worse situation because of the heavy snowfall. The price of legs of pork today is 17 cents a pound, whereas two weeks ago it was selling for 15 cents. Chops are being sold now for 18 to 22 cents while they were sold for 14 to 18 cents a few weeks back.

The same increase in price, though not so sudden, may be found in all other kinds of meat and it is expected that the prices will rise still higher. The reasons for the increase are the export of meats to the countries at war and the general bad weather conditions through the country, which the big meat companies claim affects the price of the meats. One butcher said this morning that he will receive a supply of pigs next week and then he will start worrying where to get more. Apparently there is a general lack of pork throughout the county. The pork season is scheduled to end around April 1.

FLATBUSH.

Flatbush, March 18.—At the communion services last Sunday, seven young ladies were received into the church in confession and one by letter.

Miss Maye Osterhoudt was the guest of her brother, Lawrence Osterhoudt, at New Paltz last week.

Miss Annabel Pearson of Woodstock and Mrs. Hyatt of Kingston were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Pearson.

Invitations are out for a masquerade dance at the T. X. L. club house on Friday evening.

Commissioner of Highways Frank S. Osterhoudt is opening up the roads with teams and men, after the worst storm of the season.

The Rev. Dr. Wyckoff and Theodore Brink of Katrine called on the sick here Sunday.

Elias Rockwell was injured by falling from the elevator at the Kenny ice house one day last week. Dr. Diehl of Saugerties was summoned and found him badly cut about the head. After caring for him he was removed to his boarding place.

On Wednesday our mail carrier was only able to make the route along the state road, the other roads being impassable.

Social at Cotskill Postponed.

The social which was to have been held in the Cotskill Reformed Chapel on Tuesday evening, March 21, has been postponed until later, the date of which will appear in the columns of this paper. The deep snow, bad roads and the postponement of other social events, until the same week is the reason of this postponement.

Cow's Expensive Meal.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Durham, N. C., March 18.—John Layton, farmer near Durham, had no faith in banks. Now he has no faith in cows. One of his prize Guernseys ate $300 in bills which he had hidden in his barn. "Darn the cows," said Layton today. "They have no respect for money."

AMERICAN BANKNOTES.

Harder to Counterfeit Than Those of Any Other Nation.

An official of the treasury department says that not only do American engravers of banknotes excel all others in the artistic quality of their designs, but that they likewise excel in the ingenuity of their provisions against counterfeiting.

Jacob Perkins of Newburyport, Mass., invented the method of transferring designs from hardened steel plates to steel cylinders and of retransferring to flat plates, thus enabling the engraver to devote the time necessary to accomplish his best work in the original and reproduce it at will. Asa Spencer, another Yankee, contributed another instrument, the geometric lathe, which renders difficult the successful counterfeiting of paper money.

Most European governments depend for the protection of their paper money upon color work. Several of the large banks of issue employ civil engineers in their bureaus of engraving and printing, a proceeding that puzzles American experts, who cannot see the connection between engineering and engraving. Many Italian banknotes are easy to counterfeit. A few years ago the Bank of Spain was obliged to abandon its own plant, since its notes were imitated so successfully that the counterfeits were without question accepted by the bank itself. A private concern now does the work.

The Bank of Greece employs the American method, having suffered a sad experience with notes of German, Austrian and English make.

The American experts do not hold to the popular notion abroad that the notes of the Bank of England cannot be counterfeited. They contend that these famous notes can be imitated readily enough, for little attempt is made to protect them beyond the use of a watermarked paper.

One practical safeguard of great effectiveness is the custom of the Bank of England of canceling every note that is returned to the bank and issuing another in its place. This and the practice of keeping a record of the numbers of all banknotes used in every business establishment keep alive a keen sense of responsibility, which adds to security.—Philadelphia Record.

We, the People.

The phrase, "We, the people of the United States," in the preamble of the constitution read in the first draft of the constitution as follows: "We, the people of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, do ordain, declare and establish," etc. Though unanimously adopted by the convention, the wording had to be changed to "We, the people," simply because the constitution, which had not as yet been ratified, was to go into effect when ratified by nine states, and, not knowing which states were to ratify, the naming of the states was, of course, out of the question.

Chameleon Scared White.

Madagascar is the home of the chameleon. In his book, "A Naturalist in Madagascar," James Sibree says the chameleon changes color for other reasons than adaptation to its background. He saw one that turned perfectly white out of fright when seized in the coils of a snake. When released it resumed its ordinary color. The Malagasy call it ranilaheloka, which means "naughty old boy."

Dead Wrong.

"What would you do, Jimson," asked Professor Brainfog, "if you saw a man fall dead in the street without apparent reason?" "I really wouldn't know what to do, sir," answered the young student. "I think I should just let him lie there. It would certainly be wrong of any man to drop dead in the street without first giving his reasons for doing so."—Kansas City Star.

When Cordova Was the World.

Cordova, Spain, was a brilliant capital of the world, with half a million population, when the rest of Europe was clouded by the deepest lethargy of the middle ages. In the year 950 Cordova was considered the world's fountain of learning and science, and Christian Europe turned to her for instruction in "everything from tanning leather to charting the stars."—Argonaut.

Machine Chews Money.

There is a machine in the United States treasury which chews money, and when the old bills come in this machine takes good care that they are not in any condition to be used again. First all the bills are made into piles and then placed in packages. Then the bills are sliced, so that each one is in half pieces. Then the paper is ground up in the machine.

FOWLER'S CHARGES NOT EXCESSIVE

In refuting charges brought against Everett Fowler, one of the defendants in the case being argued before the appellate division at Albany in which New York city is the appellant and John J. Linson, Augustus Van Buren, and Everett Fowler respondents, Amos Van Etten, attorney for the defendant Fowler, gave items of expenses incurred by the defendants during the Catskill water supply proceedings for the purpose of proving that charges for services rendered by the defendants were not excessive and unlawful.

This case was an appeal from the judgment dismissing the complaint with costs and granting an allowance of $500 each to the defendants in an action for fraud claimed on part of the defendants, who acted as special counsel during the water supply proceedings.

Mr. Van Etten quoted a letter from Acting Corporation Counsel Sterling to Comptroller Metz bearing date June 4th, 1908 in which the former stated that it was anticipated that the expenses in Ulster County would be much larger than in Westchester county.

William McEl Spier, attorney for appellant, in his brief gave some items of expenses and these Mr. Van Etten used in proving that they were not excessive. According to Attorney Spier, Mr. Linson received for searches $76,505.87 while Fowler received $41,633.48, thereby making the total payment for searches in Ulster and Orange counties charged by these defendants $118,139.35. There were 18 sections in this reservoir and as many commissions of three members each. These 18 sections contained 936 parcels.

Fowler had charge of aqueduct sections 3, 4 and 5 in Ulster county each before a commission of three members and containing 171 parcels and about 100 parcels in Orange county in aqueduct section, 6, 7 and 8. The total parcels in charge of Mr. Fowler were 1,207 upon all of which searches were made. Searches were also made on the property of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company, for the pipe line to take care of the sewerage in Kingston city, and on properties outside of the reservoir not before the commissions. This brought out the fact these searches in the reservoir and aqueduct cost New York city an average of $97 per search.

Mr. Spier also gave the cost of abstracts: Mr. Linson's $30,392.50; Mr. Fowler's $18,115, making a total of $48,507.50. Abstracts were made for each parcel as the awards were not paid unless accompanied with a search and abstract. Mr. Van Etten proved that the abstracts cost the city of New York on an average of $40 each.

Attorney Van Etten argued that the figures showing the charges for searches made by defendants showed conclusively that the charges amounting to an average of $97 are much less than those made by the county clerk for the searches which were entrusted to him. "Thus it appears," read Mr. Van Etten's brief, "that with all charges of fraud, duplication, etc., the city of New York paid these defendants on the average $97 for searches and $40 for abstracts and these defendants unhesitatingly assert that the city of New York never in its history had work done as cheap as was done for it by these defendants."

Respondent also submitted figures which proved that the defendant's charge for cases averaged $100 a case. The nature of these cases was that of either appointment of commissioners, organization of commissions, trials, preparation for trials, viewing properties, confirming commissioners' reports, and other work.

Those Chautauqua guarantors who have not received their tickets can get them from the secretary tonight at Dedrick's drug store from 7:30 to 10 o'clock.

An entertainment will be given by the Rose of Sharon and the Knights of Judea Club on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at the Hebrew school on Post street. A small admission will be charged. All are invited to attend.

A. E. Thomas, the Crown street piano dealer, has sold a Starr player piano to L. H. Julian of No. 116 O'Neill street, a Mathushek piano to John Brown of No. 101 Elmendorf street, and an upright piano to Miss Elsie Young, of No. 51 Maiden Lane.

A musical will be given by one of the circles of the King's Daughters class of the Clinton Avenue Sunday school Monday evening, March 20, at the home of Mrs. E. D. Chipp, 123 Clinton avenue. Light refreshments will be served and a collection taken for the benefit of the Bernard McBride memorial fund.

Circle No. 3 of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will serve an old-fashioned German supper on Monday evening, from 5 to 9 o'clock at her residence of Mrs. A. M. Heiselman, 273 West Chestnut street. A good meal and an enjoyable evening is promised. The public is invited.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Isaac Keator died at Jamaica, L. I. Thursday evening. He was an uncle of Dr. Frank Keator of this city.

The funeral of Thomas B. Cullen was held this morning from his late residence on Livingston street and thence to St. Mary's Church where a solemn mass of requiem was celebrated for the repose of his soul.

The celebrant was the Rev. John J. Hickey, deacon, the Rev. Stephen Connelly, and subdeacon, the Rev. Daniel Gilmartin. The bearers were Sergeant Murray and Policeman William Ryan of the city police force, Michael White and Patrick Keane, retired members of the force, and John Mar and John T. Egan. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Andrew Carpenter died on Friday afternoon at the Kingston City Hospital. He was employed as a carpenter on the West Shore railroad. About two weeks ago he fell and broke his knee cap, and gangrene set in with fatal result. He is survived by his widow and one son, his parents, three brothers, William, Charles and Lewis, three sisters, Mrs. Harry Carson of Brooklyn, Mrs. M. Ryan of Brooklyn, and Margaret of this city. Mr. Carpenter was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Loyal Order of Moose. The funeral will be held from his late residence, 100 Tremper avenue, Monday morning at 9 o'clock and at St. Joseph's Church at 9:30 where a solemn high mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. The interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Phoenicia, March 18.—Mrs. Henry Boice passed away on Monday evening, March 6, after a long illness. She was a great sufferer but bore it with a patience that was wonderful. Her mind was clear all through her sickness and to the last. She realized that she was passing through the valley for weeks and was willing and patiently waited for the final summons. The night she passed away she seemed to realize the messenger was near for she gathered her family to the room and said "It would soon all be over and good bye to me." She was a member of the M. E. Church and when living at West Shokan and in better health she was an earnest, faithful church worker and for several years a successful president of the Willing Workers. Mrs. Boice was a person of pleasant disposition, a good neighbor and one always ready and helpful in times of sickness. She had a large circle of friends who once were associated with her and although she is gone, thoughts of her still remain in their memory. The funeral was held at the late residence Thursday morning, the Rev. Mr. Bohne, Eichol officiating, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Pyfe, who was a former pastor of the deceased at Shokan. Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Loomis, Mrs. C. Liske and J. G. Leopold sang the selections which she was fond of, "I Shall Be Satisfied," "Sometime We'll Understand," and "As the Day Breaks." There were many lovely floral tributes. The newly formed friendships of the Phoenicia people were very pleasant to her and she often spoke of the kindness and thoughtfulness manifested by them to her. She leaves a husband, mother, sister and five children, Mrs. C. H. Vesley, Mrs. Phipps, Mrs. L. Riley, Miss Verma and son, Lorin, to feel the vacancy caused by her decease. The interment was at Mt. Pleasant.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mrs. Schilling entertained some twenty-five of her friends at her home at the Federation House on Friday evening, in honor of her birthday. There was vocal and instrumental music, and games were enjoyed during the evening, as well as dancing, and delicious refreshments were served. It was a very happy event.

The card party given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. O'Leary on Fair street Friday evening for the benefit of the charity fund of the Daughters of Isabella, was a great success, there being some hundred guests present. The house was prettily decorated with palms and ferns and green carnations. Five hundred and euche were played, and a neat sum was realized for the fund.

Mrs. Conrad E. Hasbrouck was the hostess at a unique and delightful St. Patrick's dinner given at her home on Stayessant street, Friday evening. Covers were laid for ten. The table decorations were artistic and clever, consisting of a centerpiece of carnations and mignonette, with green-shaded candles. The favors were pipes, shillalabs, snakes, etc., and ices were served in the form of harps, shamrocks, "praties," etc. The dinner was greatly enjoyed by the entire party.

The Misses Frances and Harriet Welch were hostesses for a charming St. Patrick's party at their home, 155 Fair street, on Thursday evening, in honor of Miss Genevieve A. Doney. During the evening a miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Doney. A buffet supper was served. Those present were the Misses Sarah Blackwell, Margaret Bush, Theresa Garrison, Hilda Myers, Ella Klein, Eva Palen, Elmore Humphrey, Jane Miller, Sue Gumeur, Genevieve A. Doney and Frances and Harriet Welch.

Miss Helen Cronin delightfully entertained twelve of her little friends at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Brady, on Friday afternoon, the occasion being her twelfth birthday. Games and dancing were enjoyed and dainty refreshments were served. The color scheme was green in honor of St. Patrick. The guests departed at a late hour, all voting Miss Helen a royal entertainer. Those present were Katherine Terpening, Gertrude Burns, Katherine Kellher, Fannie Kellher, Mildred Elmendorf, Evelyn Lasher, Max Oppenheimer, Thomas Hayes, Edward Richards, Kenneth Lasher, Harold Short.

A number of younger society people enjoyed a delightful dance Friday night at Assembly Hall on Wall street. Eleven couples danced to music furnished by Muller's orchestra. Those present were the Misses Ethel Rose, Miriam Pitts, Violet Reynolds, Jane Hogeboom, Katherine Pehleman, Katherine Diamond, Ruth Decker, Olga Owens, Alberta Silkworth, Freda Mayne, Laura Cook, and Gus Brinney, Raymond Smith, Eugene Gleason, Albert Deyo, Calvin Winne, Raymond Van Buren, Fred Snyder, Nelson Smith, Lester Boice, Harry Connelly, Bernard McBride, Thomas Roach, Egbert Shultz, Thomas Pepper and Roger Gibson. Mrs. E. W. Sweeney chaperoned the party.

A birthday party was given on St. Patrick's day by Mrs. Morton Low at her home on Albany avenue in honor of her little daughter, Janet, who celebrated the second anniversary of her birth. She had eleven little friends, Marion Becker, Peggy Smith, Rosalind and Florence Elliott, Doris and Christine Greenleaf, Virginia Van Keuren, Marvin and Robert Crosby, John and Gordon Watts, who helped her celebrate. After playing games and amusing themselves with their hostess's toys they marched to the dining room and enjoyed refreshments. The table was decorated with green carnations and smilax in the center of which was the birthday cake. On it were two small green candles and one large one, on which to grow. All through the house were many beautiful flowers, which were sent to little Janet to help her spend a happy birthday.

The patrons of the Blue Ribbon Club, who are holding a series of dances at Griffith's Hall, will be given a rare treat this evening. The largest orchestra that has ever played at a dance at the hall will be in attendance. McLean's full orchestra of eight pieces has been contracted for and that the music will be first class is a foregone conclusion, as this famous orchestra made a decided hit at the armory last Saturday evening.

The members of the Blue Ribbon Club are doing their best to give the large crowds who attend their affairs the best possible form of entertainment, as only a short time ago they had a well known colored quartet, who made a decided hit with the big crowd by their clever singing and dancing. In the future confetti and streamer dances and other first class entertainments will be presented. The dances are drawing large throngs from towns in the nearby vicinity and lots of pleasure-seekers come for every dance. The best possible order is maintained which has been a decided factor in the success of all the events which have taken place under the club's auspices. A small admission is charged and all who are in attendance are assured of having a jolly good time, combined with hearing some of the best music on the market. A number of Kingston's finest musicians. Dancing from 8 until 12 o'clock.

Herrick-Wallace.

Timothy Herrick, aged 79 years, for about a half century superintendent of the W. B. Dinsmore estate at Staatsburgh, was married on Tuesday to Miss Wallace, aged 40, a school teacher whose home is near Syracuse, N. Y. The wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride. News of it came as a great surprise to Staatsburgh folks as Mr. Herrick had kept the approaching nuptials very quiet.

"Hansel and Gretel" Presented.

The women of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Dutch Church, in order to raise funds for their coming annual dinner, as is their custom, prepared, will present to the music loving people of Kingston on Monday evening next, March 20, a song recital of the charming opera "Hansel and Gretel," one of the most notable and popular operas of recent years. Mrs. Margaret Raper, members of the Twentieth Century Club recently with a song recital of "Carmen," will be the artist on Monday evening, and all who were privileged to hear Mrs. Raper at that time know full well what a treat is in store for the audience on Monday evening. Harry P. Dodge will be the accompanist, which will add much to the musical pleasure of the evening. The song recital given in the chapel of the First Dutch Church Monday evening will begin at 8 o'clock.

Squire Judkin's Apple Bee.

The Gem Society of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will give a presentation of "Squire Judkin's Apple Bee," at the church on Wednesday evening of next week. To begin with, the society is giving a social entertainment to secure money to add to the flower fund, with which flowers are purchased to be sent to the sick and shut ins. The play itself, to be given by the young people, is decidedly humorous, being a clever reproduction of the "good old times" when such sociability as "apple bees" took the place of the rigidity of today. Old fashioned customs and old time songs with plenty of fun will offer an evening of most enjoyable entertainment. The cast of characters will be as follows: Squire Judkins, a farmer, Mr. Dietz; Mrs. Judkins, his wife, Miss Elmore Winchell; Ezekiel Judkins, who plays the fiddle, Fred Dressler; Hester Watkins, Miss Grace Van Vleet; Eliza Doolittle, Miss Beatrice Freer; Peter Milkken, John Prindler; Jane Jenkins, Miss Hazel Fields; Obadiah Higgins, the conundrum propounder, Leo Britt; Susan Brown, Miss May Hayes; Amanda Smith, Miss Ida Britt; Sally Hoskins, the village poetess, Miss Daisy Pattison; William Hines, Adelbert Miller; Seth Dusenberry, Edgar Knapp; Mary Ann Johnson, Miss Ida Steen; Samantha Cooper, Miss Gusie Bush; Simon Livermore, Frank Hyatt; Moses Hoff, Mr. Van Aken; Sophronia Weatherby,

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, March 18.—"There he goes, boys, lookit him," commanded like Dorgan, the extremely famous fight manager, as Frank Moran, radiating health and confidence, flitted toward the Dal Hawkins ring for his daily workout. "Ain't he magnificent? Some scrapper that! The greatest battler since the days when John L. was killing 'em dead with one wallop."

"Give my hero the through and through, because he is the replica of John L. Sullivan in his prime. No fighter in the past 25 years has resembled the amazing Sullivan as does Moran."

"John L. wasn't wonderfully scientific, was he? No, he wasn't. Neither is Moran. John L. didn't have a flock of fancy punches in his repertoire. Just had a good old-fashioned right handed stone crusher that always fetched home the pork chops. What's Frank's main stock in trade? A right? Right you are. It's a right, and, take it from me, it's some right!"

Some M're Dorganisms.

"Rather take it from you than from Moran; I'll hurt less," bespoke a sub-chronicler of sporting items, gazing upon Dorgan's slight figure. Like the famous, paused long enough in his oration to annihilate the youth with one piercing glance of commingled hate and loathing, and then continued:

"Ol' John L. wasn't a Vernon Castle. Neither is my Francis. Sullivan was just a scrapper—first, last and all the time. No frills for him. And that's the way it is with Moran. 'No one ever saw John L. lose his head in the ring. He was a real ring general; always cool, calm and collected; always the master of the situation. That's the way it is with Moran. He never makes a false move. Every act of his body is mapped out by his nimble brain, which has stamped him as one of the most intelligent youngsters that ever hopped into the squared circle."

Predicts K. O. by Moran.

"You hear a lot of fellows saying that my hero has no chance against Willard—that the champion is too big. Bah! Likewise pludge and squeegee! Lemme tell you something. This is it: Before midnight on March 25 there'll be a new heavyweight champion of the world and one of California's favorite sons will be his manager. Are you following me?"

Chorus: "We're ahead of you." "I suppose you boys are anxious to know how it'll be done, hey, what?"

"Right!" "Well, here's the schedule. In the first round Frank will do little else than study Willard and pick out soft spots for his punches. In the second he'll try out a few of those punches to see which are best suited for the occasion, and then, in the third—zowie!"

Cuts Loose in Third.

"Frank's gonna begin doin' business in the third. That's where he's really gonna cut loose. And when that baby is loose something usually happens. You remember what he did in those Coffey fights, don't you? Broke loose in the third round of the first fight—and the battle ended right there. In the next fight the evening's entertainment was over just as soon as Frank began unlimbering the heavy artillery. "Well, as I've stated previously, Frankie, ol' boy, will begin to let loose in the third. His idea is cut up Willard a bit before he send over the haymaker. He doesn't want to win with one punch, because everyone will say it was a lucky blow. Frank wants to chop up the champion quite a lot before he sends him down and out. Then there won't be any question of supremacy."

"What'll Willard be Doin'?"

"Along about the fifth or sixth you keep your eyes glued on that ring because just about then Frankie is going to load up that 42 centimeter right and he'll explode it at any minute thereafter."

"Pardon me, Mister Dorgan," interposed an innocent bystander, "but would you mind tellin' what Mr. Willard be doing all that time?"

The great manager heaved a baleful glare at his questioner, and then answered:

A Cruel Execution.

At the Spring Street German Lutheran Church the second English pasteur service will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30. The subject of the sermon will be, "The Crucifixion of Christ, the Blackest Deed Recorded in History." Special organ and choir music will be rendered.

VIOLET RAY MADE HIT WITH DIEDLING

No, Violet Isn't a Lady, but a Scientific Apparatus and it Didn't Cost the Doctor a Cent.

Dr. Rudolph F. Diedling, of Saugerties, N. Y., has his Type H Violet Ray High Frequency Generator anywhere. Certain little incidents of how Dr. Diedling obtained the Violet Ray High Frequency Generator came out when Dr. Diedling appeared in White Plains as the witness-in-chief against Thomas Mott Osborne, who was acquitted. Here's what happened at the trial, according to the New York Times:

Dr. Diedling, who is a member of the State Prison Commission, testified that when he, as a prison commissioner, was investigating Sing Sing prison, Mr. Osborne, then warden, told him certain untruths. Mr. Osborne was tried for perjury as a result of this charge and the presiding justice decided that he had not been truthful in the first place and that Dr. Diedling had had no right to make the investigation in the second place—but that is another story. The point is that Dr. Diedling was a witness at the trial, and all went well with him until George Osborne Battle took up the cross-examination.

Mr. Battle produced a paper signed by the doctor and one E. H. Valentine, in which Dr. Diedling acknowledged receipt "gratis" of "One Type H Violet Ray High Frequency Generator" from E. H. Valentine, of 214 West Forty-second street, New York City, "with the understanding that the doctor was to recommend this make of machine to any person" who might write or telephone. And it was further stipulated in the agreement that Dr. Diedling was to receive "20 per cent commission on the sale of any such machine" through his recommendation.

Recommended it Highly.

This agreement was drawn up and signed on February 21, 1916, and on the same day Dr. Diedling, as he admitted on the witness stand, wrote and signed the following indorsement on the official stationery of the State Commission of Prisons:

"This is to certify that I am using the type H Violet Ray light for high frequency generation. I have been using electrical appliances in my practice for the past fifteen years, X-ray, Violet Ray, vibrators, etc. This machine has advantages over the others in a great many ways, and the harshness in the treatment of patients is obliterated. I heartily recommend this machine to my fellow practitioners."

Dr. Diedling admitted on the witness stand that he signed this indorsement before he had used the machine on any patient. At first, in answer to a question by Justice Tompkins, he said that he had not received one of the machines from Valentine, but later he changed his testimony and said that one of the machines was in his possession when he so highly recommended it.

Two days after, Dr. Diedling signed the above agreement, received the machine, and wrote his recommendation, according to the trial testimony, he received a letter from Dr. Charles Kennedy, of 302 Broadway, who said that he had heard that Dr. Diedling had "bought" the Violet Ray Generator from the Valentine Sales Company of 214 West Forty-second street, and would like to know the doctor's opinion of the machine if the doctor had "had it a sufficiently long time to be able to judge" of its merits.

The doctor had had the machine "a sufficiently long time," for, as he admitted in his testimony, he wrote Dr. Kennedy as follows:

Have been using the Violet Ray High Frequency and believe it the best of the market. Am now using it on a very severe case of neuritis with excellent results. No unpleasant feeling from its use, as in some of the other types of generators. I can heartily recommend it to you! Fraternally.

On the same day Dr. Diedling, according to his trial testimony, received a similar inquiry from R. Regal, M. D., of New York, to which he sent a similar reply, adding that it could be "used on children and women without giving them a scare."

paper of the State Commission of Prisons. All of these facts, then, came out at the Osborne trial. Here is what happened yesterday:

One searching for E. H. Valentine went to the address—214 West Forty-second street—given in the Diedling-Valentine agreement and found himself in the New Amsterdam Theater. Inquiry for Valentine was fruitless. The inquirer then went to 302 Broadway, and found that Charles Kennedy occupied rooms there over the entrance door of which was inscribed in bold letters "Law Office." There was nothing about medicine or surgery or violet rays. The inquirer was admitted to Mr. Kennedy, and that person, when asked concerning his correspondence with Dr. Diedling, gave this cheerful response:

Helped Out O'Farrel.

"Sure, I wrote to the Doc and asked him about the machine. Buy one? You bet your life I didn't. My friend Val O'Farrel, the private detective, you know, asked me to write the letter to Doc Diedling and turn the answer over to him—so I did. I'd do anything for Val. And I am a doctor, all right, as well as a lawyer, so I fixed M. D. after my name."

"Do you know E. H. Valentine?" Mr. Kennedy was asked.

"Yes, I know him," he replied. "He's one of Val's men."

Dr. Regal was also found to be one of O'Farrel's friends who had written to oblige the detective. O'Farrel himself would not say much to the inquirer except to deny that he had been employed by Mr. Osborne. He admitted, however, that he had a "client" for whom he had done "some work" the result of which he had given to his "client."

"According to information and belief," though, E. H. Valentine, after purchasing one Type H violet ray, etc., generator for $15, appeared at Dr. Diedling's home in Saugerties on February 16 last, told the doctor that he was agent for the machine, that he wanted the recommendation of "prominent" physicians, and that he had been informed that Dr. Diedling was the "most prominent and esteemed" physician "north of the Bronx River." As a result of the interview the machine was delivered, the agreement made, and the recommendations written.

Thursday's developments were rehearsed that night over the long-distance telephone to Dr. Diedling.

"Why," said the doctor, "I knew all the time that Valentine was a detective. He didn't fool me. A friend of mine in New York tipped me off two days before he arrived. I just pretended to fall for his game because I got a free machine out of it. It was just a business proposition with me. I did nothing illegitimate."

And so Dr. Diedling still has the Type H Violet Ray High Frequency Generator.

PALENTOWN.

Palentown, March 18.—Victor Beesmer is employed by Everett Brannen cutting and drawing pine logs.

Mrs. Stanley Krum is reported very ill at the home of her father in this place. Mrs. William Dymond is employed as nurse caring for her. She is also attended by Dr. Fuller of Kerhonkson.

Mrs. M. Gray is ill. Jennie Gray and Grace Traver spent Sunday afternoon with Zenie Krom and mother.

Otis Barringer had the bad luck to lose his horse last week.

Mrs. Reenie Lyons has returned to her home in Kingston. She has been spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. William Gray, of this place.

Mrs. Homer Traver's oleander bush is in bloom. It does not seem to mind the snow storms or blizzards outside.

William Dymond is employed at Agnes Brown's at Liebhardt as chore boy in place of Orlington, who expects to spend a few weeks in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reaves and children spent Sunday with Mrs.

Mary Brannen. J. Westenberg and G. Barringer of Samsonville called on Homer Traver Tuesday last.

George Miller of Kerhonkson spent Sunday evening in this place. The blizzard that was so much talked of that was to come in this month has arrived and is one of the old fashioned ones that we hear old people tell about.

A number of young people of this place expect to work at Mohonk the coming season.

The Rev. Mr. Braunstein will preach his farewell sermon next Sunday at Samsonville Church.

NEW SPRING MERCHANDISE

Just a few days and winter must give place to spring. Everybody will want new spring merchandise. There never was a time when the advice to "buy early" could be acted upon to better advantage.

NEW MILLINERY.

SMART STYLES FOR EARLY SPRING.

The coming spring season will be one of great variety of color and styles. You will like the style and trimming best after you have tried the hat on, then you can realize that the milliner's art is in knowing just where to place a flower here, and an ornament there, to secure the best effect. You will not only be charmed with the smart styles but more than pleased with the moderate prices.

SILK POPLIN, $1.00.

40 inches wide, in all the popular colors for spring. It will be impossible for us to replace this stock, so take the advice and buy early at $1.00 yard.

NEW WAISTS FOR SPRING.

DOZENS AND DOZENS OF THEM.

So many pretty styles can't say which is the prettiest. TUB SILK WAISTS, $1.97. Old Rue, Light Blue, Pink, Green and White; collar can be worn either high or low; would be good value at any time, unusually good at present when silks are advancing in price.

SILK WAISTS AT $2.97 AND $3.97.

Good range of colors, several good styles, made with high or low collars; no two waists just alike; every one different, either in style or color. $2.97 and $3.97.

NEW DRESS SKIRTS.

Decidedly new in style, remarkably low in price. Dress skirts that will give real service at $2.50, $3.97, $4.50, $4.97 and $5.50.
